County Galway VEC launches its' Second Marine and Countryside Guide programme

COUNTY Galway VEC in partnership with Fáilte Ireland and Údarás na Gaeltachta are launching the Marine and Countryside Guide programme on the 3rd February in the Adult Education Centre in Rosmuc. This programme provides opportunities for those wishing to gain a qualification in guiding to do so on a modular part-time programme with a focus on marine tourism and sea-angling. County Galway VEC successfully ran the Marine and Countryside Guide programme in 2010 in North Connemara in response to a recognised need for hill-walking guides in the area. Eighteen guides have qualified in this programmes and are already working in the tourism sector. North Connemara welcomes a high number of visitors with an interest in hill walking and as the area is surrounded by mountains, particularly the Twelve Bens the hill-walking specialism was an obvious choice. The Marine and Countryside Guide programme itself comprises a number of specialisms, Coastal Guiding, Boat Angling, Shore Angling, Pike Angling and Hill Walking as well as the core guiding module which covers a wide range of topics from, Irish Tourism Studies, the Role and Responsibilities of the Tourist Guide, Professional Guiding Skills, Marketing, An International Language and

Group Management. The programme will give the participant the opportunity to study and experience the beauty, creativity, energy of our culture, heritage and landscape through a series of workshops, coastal walks and island visits. Participants on the course will be taught by experienced tutors from both the tourism and maritime industries. Tourism has been recognised as a key factor in our economic recovery and of vital importance to the West of Ireland. This programme is focusing on the strength of our natural heritage and resources with a focus on the maritime history and the wealth of knowledge related to it. In order to achieve a vibrant tourism industry it must be supported by a range of services and skills and it is this type of programme that affords an opportunity to participants to achieve an internationally recognised qualification at FETAC Level 6. Eithne Nic Dhonnchadha, Adult Education Officer, Co.Galway VEC who coordinates this programme is delighted with the partnership approach to this industry led initiative. "There is huge interest in this programme nationally as it seen as a model of education and training that captures the quality of the product and marries it with the necessary skills in order to provide a highly valued service to the visitor. Having qualified guides will support the development of the industry and encourage entrepreneurship which we believe is required if tourism is to succeed" she stated. The course itself is open to participants from all over the country, the key requirement being that one has a keen interest in being involved in the industry and particularly the maritime element of tourism. It is an exciting opportunity and given that it is housed in the Gaeltacht, the wealth of traditional music, song and dance will play a prominent role in the workshops. Áras Sorcha Uí Ghuairim, Carna will support the programme through a number of workshops in the culture of the area. For further details and applications for the programme contact the Adult Education office, Co.Galway VEC 091/874533/38 or vtosrosmuc@cogalvec.ie.
